BUSY DAYS FOR STAFF AND STUDENTS IN APPLIED ARTS

Nancy Epner, Co-ordinator of the Fashion Careers Program says 42 Fashion students and staff will travel to Montreal in April for a four-day visit to Canada's fashion capital. Visits include tours of factories, garment showrooms, textile factories and retail outlets.

Students and staff of the Recreation Leadership Program participated in the annual Ontario Camping Association conference recently.

A mobile education trip for fourth semester students of the Travel & Tourism Program is planned for April 10 - 17th to Barbados. A second trip is also being planned for the first year students to Acapulco, Mexico from April 5 - 13th. These trips will provide on location study of the important tourist resources and policies of the major Canadian tourist areas.

Thirty students from the first, second and third year Landscape Technology program attended the three-day Ontario Shade Tree Council Conference last month in Sault Ste. Marie. Rick Hook, who accompanied the group was elected as the new President of the above organization.

For the third consecutive year, Barry Saxton and Bill Anderson of the Law Enforcement Program have arranged for the Provincial Parks superintendents to take a one-week course in law and security.

Barney Danson, Federal Minister of State for Urban Affairs, was at Humber recently to talk to students and staff in the Community Studies Program on Housing in Canada.

Joe Grogan, Co-ordinator of the Centre for Labor Studies, says the first Labor Visual Arts exhibition in the McGuire Gallery last week was attended by more than 100 people.

The Fashion Modelling and Fashion Careers students staged three successful Spring fashion shows recently with clothes from Canadian designers and manufacturers.

Horsemanship students participated in the Quarterama Show at the CNE.

HUMBER STAFF VISIT WARKWORTH INSTITUTE

A group of 11 staff from Humber College recently visited the Warkworth Institute in Belleville to talk with inmates serving sentences from two years to life.

The trip was led by Jack Ross, Dean of the Creative Arts and Human Studies Division. Those on the visit were Paddy Pugsley and Fred Manson of Applied Arts, Gregg McQueen of Health Sciences, Craig Barrett and Chris Morton of Counselling, John Parsonage from Technology, Gary Noseworthy from CAHS, Eric Mundinger from Business, Gail Hitchins from the Retraining and Apprenticeship Division and bus driver Bob Corbeil.

"We met with about 100 of the 400 inmates at the medium security institution," said Ross.

The purpose of the trip was to outline the many varieties of courses that could be offered by Humber to the inmates when they are released.

"We were told by a social services officer at Warkworth that many of the inmates, when they are finished serving their time, may return to Toronto," added Ross. "Some of them may want to take a course at Humber."

LABOR COURSE BEGINS AT HUMBER

The Labor Leadership Development Program offered by Humber's Centre for Labor Studies and the Labor Council of Metropolitan Toronto, started recently at the North Campus. Gordon Wragg, President of Humber, welcomed representatives from organized labor to the College.

The evening sessions will be held in room H334 at the North Campus for 14 weeks every Tuesday from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.

Course instructors include Jim Gill and Wally Majesky of the Labor Council of Metro Toronto.

For further information on the Centre and course, write or visit Joe Grogan, Co-ordinator of the Centre for Labor Studies at Humber College, 676-1200.

ANOTHER AWARD FOR FURNITURE DESIGN STUDENT

A third-year Furniture Design student at Humber College of Applied Arts and Technology has received an award in a design contest for the second time in four months.

Bryan Webster, of Toronto, won third prize in the Zinc Institute's annual student design contest. Last November Webster won with three of the five Excellence of Design awards offered by Ontario's Ministry of Industry, Trade and Commerce.

A wide representation of educational institutions across Canada entered student work - most from Industrial Design Programs.

"Many people think our Furniture Design Program deals exclusively in wood," said Dave Chesterton, Chairman of Humber's Visual Arts Department. "On the contrary, a variety of materials - wood, metals, plastics - can be used for furniture and accessories, and all are studied in depth by students in the program."

Students from community colleges in Ontario won two of the three prizes and three of the five honorable mentions in the contest.

Humber Staff Speak Out!

QUESTION: What do you think of continuing strikes in Canada?

Strikers not only hurt themselves but also hurt the people not directly involved in the dispute. Therefore, union leaders have a moral obligation to get fair wages for their people and to get the work done for the community who are harmed because of the strikes.

Bob Cardinali
Financial Services
North Campus

I believe every person should receive a decent wage for services rendered. The present union management adversary relationship is a twentieth century dinosaur. However, until a better method to cope with this problem is found, strikes will remain with us. When strikes occur inconvenience on the public I tend to react as emotionally as any other middle class taxpayer. I don't like it.

Julie Brocklehurst
Admissions/Records Officer
North Campus

Not much!
Kay Hilton
General Enquiries
North Campus

Strikes affect everyone. Disputes should be settled by public juries within specially established labor courts. If a jury can hang a man, they can resolve a labor dispute. At least in the latter case, the disgruntled party can resign or go out of business.

HUMBER AND WATERLOO EQUAL HOUSING

Architects and interior designers are getting together at the educational level in Scarborough's Malvern development and the Saltfleet project in Hamilton.

Second-year Interior Design students at Humber College and third-year Architecture students from the University of Waterloo are making plans for middle class housing and public buildings. The latter includes a possible recreation complex, community centre, shopping plaza, day-care centre and boutiques.

Marek Pain, co-ordinator of Humber's Interior Design Program, said the project is for 50 acres in Scarborough and 40 acres in Saltfleet.

Chris Kuras, a professor of Architecture at Waterloo, said he was approached by the Ontario Housing Corporation with the project. Kuras said there should be a team idea that would include the architect and interior designer, and the approached Pain.

The students have been exchanging ideas through visits in March and will present their plans to OHC in April.

"If the students come up with something brilliant, then we've been told it will be built," said Pain.

OHC has given the students a free hand to do whatever they like in the project. More than 70 students are involved. Pain and Kuras said they, as teachers, are there only to provide suggestions.

In another project, the Interior Design students have been making homes for the year 2000. The picture above shows a house built over a lot allowing the home and yard to occupy the same area.

The new and final dates for this year's Convocation are'

EXTENDED SUMMER VACATIONS

How about taking an extended vacation this summer?

Faculty and staff can take additional time off without pay during May to August providing they have permission from the head of their Division.

50 EMPLOYERS INTERVIEW HUMBER STUDENTS DESPITE FORECAST OF TOUGHER YEAR AHEAD

The Career Planning and Placement office says that about 50 employers were at Humber recently to interview more than 500 students.

Most of the students were from the Business and Technology Programs with others from Travel and Tourism, Pharmacy Assistant, Funeral Services, Fashion Careers, Law Enforcement and Social Services.

On campus interviews take up a considerable amount of time during the year and result in many offers of employment to students.

The Career Planning and Placement office added that employers are predicting a tougher year for employment with fewer jobs available.

HUMBER IN THE NEWS

A glass front board, posted in the hallway of the North Campus near the Business Division offices, displays regular newspaper clippings on Humber College.

The posting of clippings became necessary because of the large number of Humber clippings received from newspapers and magazines across the country.

In past, copies of all clippings were sent to the Deans in each Division and then on to their staff. But because of costs to photostat, the centralized board became necessary.

The Office of College Relations, who are responsible for the up-date of the board, also have complete records of radio and television coverage given to Humber College.

If you're interested in obtaining a copy of a particular clipping call, write or visit the Office of College Relations at Humber's North Campus.

Letters to the Editor

It was a pleasure to have President Wragg accompanied by Jackie Robarts and Lucille Peszat visit Quo Vadis recently for the annual Open Forum. The visit came at a time when the staff were still feeling the effect of the resignation of Margaret Mackenzie, the campus director, who will be leaving Humber College on August 31, 1975.

Margaret has been the director of Quo Vadis since the first class was admitted in 1964 and the school shot to fame with many innovations previously unknown in nursing education.

Up until that time all student nurses were required to live in residence and to pay their tuition by providing service to the hospital which maintained the school and its staff.

Adult education had not yet entered the nursing field as it was thought that no one over thirty was capable of learning effectively and besides one needed to be young and vigorous to maintain the pace!

Since then nursing education has taken some giant steps - the latest being out of the Ministry of Health and hospital controlled schools and into the Ministry of Colleges and Universities and the community colleges where educational facilities never before known in nursing schools are made available to them.

The school created and nurtured a unique era in the history of nursing in Canada and those of us most intimately associated with it know that the name and the spirit of this venture are part of the basic foundations for future nursing education both here and abroad.

It was reassuring to participate in this frank and open discussion with the President of Humber College where the school now makes its home within the department of Health Sciences.

Mr. Wragg spoke of Margaret's contribution and expressed regret at her decision to resign. To the staff, his words brought encouragement, assurance and reflections on what it means to be part of a larger institution in terms of greater challenge, effort and rewards.

Lucille Peszat then clarified for us, ways in which the diploma nursing curriculum is being developed at Humber with basic common goals but a two-pronged approach to them, that will facilitate satisfactorily, the learning needs of both the young and the mature student nurse.

Margaret Mackenzie's support for her staff, the sympathy and understanding which she has always given so generously will be greatly missed. We can imagine her, on retirement, simply saying, as Candide replied to Pangloss, "but we must go now and work in the garden." Gardening is Margaret's hobby and she will always be quietly busy and a concerned person.

Margaret Mills
Quo Vadis Librarian

A LAMENT ON THE LACK OF TIME

At Osler Library, time seems to either rush on or retreat, and continues to disregard the tyranny of schedules, timetable, or meetings.

As students glance incredulously at our big clock whose second hand has finally dropped off but whose minute hand whirls jerkily around, we quote Robert Service.

"Ah the clock is always slow
It is later than you think."

or Sir William Osler who warns us:

"Save the fleeting moment
Do not stop by the way."

We ask: "What need have we of clocks
Who know when highest peaks
Are gilt and rose, Day has begun."

Should we rejoice:

"I thank you Lord that I am placed so well
That you have made my freedom so complete
That I'm no slave of whistles, clocks or bell."

As Charles V of France complained when he retired:

"To think that I attempted to force the reason and conscience of thousands of men into one mould and I cannot make two clocks agree."

Recently the daylight hours were lengthened and all good
Humber clocks again were regulated.

In the library must we moan:

"Time carries all things,
even our wits away."

With apologies to Bartlett's Familiar Quotations.

Eleanor Cameron
Librarian, Osler Campus

P.S. Staff at Osler have stated that their Campus clocks are not always working.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

The budget paring exercise is producing excellent results. All cost centres have co-operated to remove one million dollars from a status quo budget. We have a planned deficit of 500 thousand dollars which we hope to reduce as the year progresses. Many thanks for all the help given to us both verbally and in writing

Quo Vadis students have expressed very forcefully many legitimate concerns on the preservation of the uniqueness of their program. Also they have outlined the restrictions under which they must operate by virtue of the fact they now are a part of a large organization. It is abundantly clear that we must endeavour to retain a degree of flexibility so that divisions can to some extent "do their own thing". It does suggest too that we do pay a price for size. The Quo Vadis students are assured of our concern for the promotion of their unique program and also of our desire to permit as much freedom of action as possible

The hard-working convocation committee have given unanimous support to the plan to hold three convocations in the Humber Equine Centre this year. This building can be prepared so that surroundings will be most appropriate for this event. The building can accomodate 1,500 people and with our bus shuttle service to the main building, the weather will not be a problem. The cost is a mere fraction of what other indoor accomodations would require. Subject to the Board of Governors concurrence, the place will be the Equine Centre and the dates are June 11th, 12th and 14th

I'd like to extend my congratulations to those who have made this first edition of the new Humber Happenings a major success.

Gordon Wragg
President
Humber College

The Fund will provide bursaries in urgent situations for students who have severe financial problems.

THE NEW LOOK OF HUMBER HAPPENINGS

This edition of Humber Happenings marks the beginning of Phase III of the College's magazine.

Humber Happenings was first started by Doris Tallon, Assistant to the President of Humber College in December 1970 as a staff internal magazine for 1,000 people.

In March of 1974, the responsibility of Humber Happenings was given to the Office of College Relations. The magazine was given a new look and its circulation increased to 1,600.

This year, the demand for Humber Happenings by students, people in the community, Government, and business and industry has been a major factor in bringing about a third phase of the magazine. Humber Happenings is now being released to all faculty, staff and students at Humber in addition to those outside the College who are interested in Humber.

Phase III will have a monthly circulation of almost 2,000 copies with its content to involve feature stories and news items on all campuses.

NORTH AMERICAN GLADIOLUS CONFERENCE COMING TO HUMBER

Humber College will host the North American Gladiolus Council Convention in January 1976.

Gordon Wragg, President of Humber, said about 200 people will attend the event from major cities across the continent. It's believed to be the first time a College in Canada will host the event.

Meanwhile, about 85 people attended the recent Ontario Gladiolus Spring Conference at Humber's North Campus.

Representatives from various Gladiolus Societies were present including those from Barrie, Stratford, Peterborough, Woodstock, Guelph, Orangeville as well as Mississauga and the Metro Toronto area.

RIGHT TO PROBE SPENDING OF COLLEGES IS DEMANDED

TORONTO (CP) - The public should be given the opportunity to scrutinize budget and spending practices of colleges and universities, Ontario New Democratic Party Leader Stephen Lewis said recently at a public meeting investigating university financing.

He suggested four steps:

First, any increase in grants should be equivalent to the rate of inflation in Ontario.

Second, if colleges and universities are given funds to keep pace with inflation, further increases should be selective and carefully applied. "We would recommend against further across-the-board percentage increases."

Third, a surplus of between $20 - and $30 - million on operating accounts should be handed out on the basis of need.

Finally, colleges and universities should be expected to show a "much greater degree of fiscal responsibility."

GOOD SEASON FOR HUMBER VARSITY SPORTS

The Humber College hockey team ended their most successful season recently when they lost a best of three series, 2 - 1, to Sheridan College for the Ontario Colleges Athletic Association Southern Division title. Sheridan won 10 - 7 and 9 - 3 games while Humber took a 7 - 5 victory.

The Hawks had a season record of 34 wins and six losses and maintained a battle with Sheridan for first place throughout the season. Included in their record was a successful international series in Switzerland in which the Hawks came out with a record of three wins and one tie.

The mens volleyball team won their second consecutive OCAA championship in Belleville and advanced to the Ontario-Quebec final in Montreal while the womens volleyball team didn't make it to the playoffs.

In golf, another second consecutive OCAA title in the championships held in Barrie.

Humber's tennis team lost to Centennial in the league finals as did the Badminton team.

The womens basketball team upset Sheridan in the play-offs before losing out to George Brown in the final that ended Humber's best season. The mens team had a poor season losing 13 of 15 games.

The soccer team ended up as the best in Toronto but placed second to Fanshawe who went on to win the league championship.

Humber's mixed curling team won the OCAA's Southern Division and advanced to the finals in Peterborough.

Rick Bendera, Humber's Athletic Director, said the overall contribution of Humber's athletes this season in varsity competition was one of the best.

Bendera added that Humber didn't compete in the archery, football, womens hockey, judo, skiing or table tennis tournaments because of lack of interest by students in these sports, financial budget restraints and no intramural programs thus leading to intercollegiate competition.

RUSS FERGUSON LEAVES HUMBER

Russ Ferguson of the Applied Arts Division will be leaving Humber College in June.

Russ has been on staff at Humber since 1969 as Co-ordinator of the Horticulture Apprenticeship and Arborist Journeyman Extension Programs and is a teacher in the Landscape Technology Program.

"It was a decision I had to make because I found teaching and raising a family were in conflict and I was unable to teach to my satisfaction because I couldn't devote enough time," he said.

Russ is a single parent and has three children, a girl age 10 and two boys who are 11 and 13.

"The College has been extremely good to me and I have really enjoyed working here," he said. "But I decided a few months ago that my family is more important."

Russ has also played a major role in bringing about the annual Spring Garden and Plant Sale for college staff. At Humber, Russ co-ordinated the short courses for Ontario Hydro, the Ministry of Transportation and the Ontario Parks Association.

Russ worked in Scarborough as Superintendent of Park Development before coming to Humber six years ago. He also lived in Kingston for 10 years and during the time was Superintendent of Grounds at Queen's University.

"I'm not sure on what I'll be doing when I leave Humber," he said. "Maybe I'll start my own business. I'd like to make films and develop slides of plants not on the market today that could be used by parks for shows."

Russ will be moving with his family to Verona, a town about 25 miles north of Kingston.

INTERNATIONAL - NATIONAL TRAVEL STUDY TO OPERATE SEVEN COURSES

A story in the last edition of Humber Happenings stated that "the Mobile Education Program had been cancelled because of budget costs and the increase in travel fees."

In fact, seven of the courses will be operating and are listed below along with their student class enrolment.

COURSE	NO. OF CLASS STUDENTS
Exploration Europe (Greece & Italy)	40
Caribbean Consciousness	35
Exploration Rockies	30
Greece (Ancient Cultures)	25
Egypt and East Africa	23
A. C. R. O. S. S. (Soviet Union)	18
Future Soleri (Arizona)	12

The courses that will not be conducted this year are Scandinavia - The Netherlands, the Middle East, International Business (Great Britain), Oceanology - St. Lawrence, The Way North-Spring, Exploration Arctic and Industries: Northwest Europe.

The individual International-National course offers 42 hours of classroom study related to the particular social, political and economic environment of the area followed by an on-location visit of the area being studied. Students must have successfully completed the orientation part of the course in order to participate in the on-location studies.

HUMBER CONDUCTS INITIAL PROGRAM FOR CITIZEN ASSOCIATES

Humber College in Toronto in co-operation with the Ontario Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association recently conducted a three-day training program for Citizen Associates.

The program was designed to provide training on contemporary issues in mental health to Citizen Associates, who are people appointed from various Ontario regions of the CMHA.

The participants in the program were involved in a series of session topics including Program Development, Motivating Volunteers, Mental Health In The Seventies, Working With Groups and Team Leadership.

"This program represented one of the most progressive moves toward providing on the spot consultation and assistance to our local branches," said Howard Richardson of Toronto, Executive Director of Mental Health Ontario.

"Humber played a major role toward the success of this program," he added. Participants in the program thought it was most informative.

"It was extremely helpful with regard to learning and knowing what I can do for my community," said Nancy Martin, a Citizen Associate from Peterborough. "Most beneficial was that Humber College let us participate in the planning of the program which was very relevant to our situation."

HINCHCLIFFE WINS GOOD EGG AWARD

The Good Egg Award this year went to Food Services.

Marianne Hinchcliffe, a hostess at the North Campus, was shocked when the President of Humber, Gordon Wragg, announced the winner in the lecture theatre.

"I don't deserve this," she said. "Why me? I never even knew about it. I was told to come down and serve coffee and I was about to check if there was enough cups when I heard Mr. Wragg announce my name."

Marianne came to Humber in September 1972 and has served hundreds of people in the Seventh Semester at a variety of receptions, luncheons, dinners and College-related functions.

The Good Egg Award is present to the staff member at Humber chosen to be the person who has given much dedication and service to his or her task at Humber and to the community.

The Award was first presented to Jack Kendall of the Custodial Services. The trophy is made of sterling silver on a wooden base and was created by Hero Kielman, curator of Humber's McGuire Art Gallery.

A second Good Egg Award is to be presented to a staff member at Humber Lakeshore at a later date.

More than 300 dogs entered the show in Westminster, New York which is rated as the major dog show in North America.
